

To whom it may concern,

Mark Stein is my son. He has a past. As a young child & young adult he has made some poor decisions. As of today's date Mark is a responsible adult. He's a great father and his number one goal is to provide for his family. He's grown up. He makes good decisions and has changed his life around. He's a social person and really loves his job. In the past he never had a job he enjoyed. He's a terrific guy. I hope you can give him a second chance and issue him the license he needs. He has his head on straight and enjoys life. I'm very very proud of my son. Thank you for taking the time to listen to his peers.

To whom this may concern:

I have known Mark for close to 8 years. In those 8 years, I have seen the worst side of Mark, and the best side. This last year he has tried his hardest to better his life. He is trying to be a working member of our society.

He has become an amazing role model to my son. I wouldn't let him do that if I didn't think he changed for the better.

His past record and mistakes should not define who he is today. Having this license can potentially move him to do bigger and better things. This would be a great opportunity to show he has changed and is not a threat to our community and can do good for it.

Thank you for taking the time to read this and hopefully reconsider his license.

To whom it may concern,

I first met with and began supervising Mark Stein on 11/28/18, during a home visit. Upon reviewing Mr. Stein's notes, he has been making progress with his supervision and has been working to address criminogenic needs. When released from prison, he resided in a TLP and was on Electronic Monitoring with no violations. He obtained an AODA assessment on 09/01/17 and no further treatment recommendations were made. All UA's obtained by Mr. Stein have been negative for all substances. Mr. Stein has struggled with obtaining and finding employment in which he enjoys. It is this Agent's hope that stable employment would inhibit any future criminal behavior as Mr. Stein will have less "free time."
