

Welcome to the Board of Health – Emma Kane, MPH

Emma has called Appleton home since 2009, when she moved here from southeast Wisconsin to attend Lawrence University. She graduated in 2013 with a degree in Biological Anthropology and went on to pursue her Master's in Public Health from Emory University in Atlanta. Upon completing her degree and returning to Appleton, Emma began her public health career in tobacco prevention and control with the American Lung Association. She then spent two years working in local county public health on a variety of injury prevention efforts. Emma now works in the non-profit sector for Community Action for Healthy Living in Kaukauna as a Strategist focused on youth substance misuse prevention across northeast Wisconsin. In her spare time, Emma coaches girls volleyball at the high school and club levels. When not in the gym she can usually be found on any one of the many recreation trails across the area, or camping at a Wisconsin State Park
